(model answer)

I recently bought a digital camera because I'm going on safari next week and I want to get some good photos of all the animals. It's very small and light and comes with a small bag, so it's very easy to carry. However, the instructions are hard to follow, so I've spent ages trying to work out how to use the flash and how to delete unwanted pictures. Although the camera is good value for money, I would only recommend it to someone who is an experienced photographer because it's too complicated for someone who is new to taking photos.
