Why some people see colours differently

We are able to see ¹ _____ colours because we have something at the back of our eyes called cone cells. These cells were very important in ancient times, as they helped humans to find fruit and berries to eat. We need three different types of cone cells to be able to see all colours correctly. This means that ² _____ people who are missing one type of cone cell cannot see ³ _____ difference between, for example, red and green. This is caused by ⁴ _____ error in the X chromosome. Very rarely, ⁵ _____ person is missing two, or even all three, types of cone cells. In this case, all colours appear as different kinds of grey.

Older people often find that their eyes begin to change and their colour vision gets worse. There's a reason for this. In each of our eyes, there is ⁶ _____ lens which focuses the light so that we can see clearly. As we get older, ⁷ _____ lenses of our eyes become more yellow, and this influences ⁸ _____ way we see certain colours. In some situations, older people can see little difference between yellow and green, and blue and purple can also look the same.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The authors would like to thank all the teachers and students round the world whose feedback has helped us to shape English File.

The authors would also like to thank all those at Oxford University Press (both in Oxford and around the world) and the design team who have contributed their skills and ideas to producing this course.

Finally very special thanks from Clive to Maria Angeles, Lucia, and Eric, and from Christina to Cristina, for all their support and encouragement. Christina would also like to thank her children Joaquin, Marco, and Krysia for their constant inspiration.

*The publisher would like to thank the following for their permission to reproduce
