Typho

The only rule in our family is – no phones at the table. My dad bans phones when we're eating together at home, or if we're in a restaurant in town. My mum's always got her work phone, but she goes outside if someone calls.

Maya

I don't watch much TV anyway, except a bit on YouTube. But my nan* lives with us and she watches TV 24/7. It isn't only young people who spend time in front of screens. 😊

We've got two family rules – but it's one rule for me and a different one for my sister!! I'm not allowed a computer in my room, but my parents let my sister have a PC because 'she's older and she studies more'. But she doesn't study!!

Messifan

My mum allows me to play a lot of video games. Maybe because I do a lot of sport outside, too.

Sam15

My mum doesn't allow TVs, computers or phones in our rooms. But anyway, I don't want to watch TV in my bedroom. I want to sleep!

Typho

You're lucky – my parents only let me play video games when I finish my homework. But I have A LOT of homework so I hardly ever play. 😞

READING • Emojis

I can identify the main topics in an article.

THINK! Why do people use emoticons?

LOOK!

I'm speaking emoji 😊

- 1 Anna is sitting on the sofa and she's sending Lucy an instant message. They're having a long conversation, but Anna isn't only using real words and they aren't writing real sentences. Like most other young people, they're messaging with small, colourful pictures. They're communicating with emojis.
- 2 Look around and you can find creative emoji T-shirts, posters, videos, and emoji stories and songs. Emojis are everywhere, but where are they from and why are they so popular?
- 3 The inventor of the first emojis, Shigetaka Kurita, is from Japan, and 'emoji' comes from the Japanese for picture (e) and letter (moji). There are now more than a thousand, showing people and ideas from many cultures, not only Japan. They now have many different skin colours, and they are becoming a truly international language.
- 4 Emojis and emoticons are popular because they can show our feelings. When we aren't speaking face-to-face, it's important to see if a message is sad, silly, funny or happy. So emojis are useful, but most of all they add a bit of colour to our lives, and a bit of fun. And that's why we really love them.

Emoji fact file

3 READING • Museum exhibits

I can use photos to help me understand a text.

THINK! Think of an exciting place for a school trip and a boring place for a school trip.

Seeing History

What was the last museum you were at? Was it good? What was your favourite exhibit? Send us your reports of the best things to see on holiday this year.

May

I was in London with my family last summer. We were in the Victoria and Albert Museum. There was an exhibition of shoes from different countries and periods in history. It was really interesting. There were some very tall, strange shoes from Japan from the 1920s. There were also some tiny shoes from China from the 19th century. For people in those days, the 'perfect' size for women's feet was 7.6 centimetres. I'm sure the shoes weren't very comfortable. A lot of girls weren't allowed to wear normal shoes. I think that was very cruel.

Tim

Our last school trip was to the Natural History Museum. Was it another boring school trip? No, it wasn't – that was a surprise. The building was beautiful, the food in the café was brilliant and the exhibits were all really interesting. The most popular were the dinosaurs. The diplodocus was enormous – it was 26 metres long. And there was a model of a Tyrannosaurus Rex with 15-centimetre-long teeth. Ouch! They were very scary animals.

Jess

Hey, you were lucky, Tim. We were on a school trip to a farm and it was terrible. There weren't any exciting animals, and the café wasn't very good. But last week I was at the National Motor Museum with my family and that was great fun. There were a lot of cars and motorbikes in the museum collection. My favourite was the fastest car in the world in 1964. It was strange – very big and long. It was called Bluebird. Here – I've got a photo of it.

1 Look at the photos on this page. Answer the questions. Then read the reports and check your answers.

- 1 What are the objects in the photos?
- 2 How old do you think the objects are?
- 3 Can you think of five words to describe the objects in the photos?

2 1.26 Read and listen to the reports again. Complete the sentences with information from the text.

- 1 The from Japan were about years old.
- 2 May thinks the shoes were uncomfortable because they were so
- 3 Tim was happy with the food in the at the
- 4 and are both types of dinosaur.
- 5 The wasn't a very interesting place.
- 6 was a very fast car in the Museum.

3 VOCABULARY PLUS Use a dictionary to check the meaning of the words in blue in the text. For more practice go to page 28 in the Workbook.

4 USE IT! Work in pairs. Which of the museums on the website do you think is the most interesting? Do you know any good museums? Where are they? What is in them?

My family's party

I'll never forget last July. That's when my big sister and her boyfriend decided to get married, and my parents had a fantastic party at our house to celebrate.

First, my mum and I went shopping for food and drink. At six o'clock, my sister's friends arrived for the party. At seven o'clock, my dad started the barbecue in the garden and after that we cooked potatoes and burgers. It was a very warm night. We ate the food and then Dad started the firework display – that was a great surprise. Finally, at about eleven o'clock, everyone went home.

There were about twenty people and we all had a good time. Only our dog didn't enjoy the party. He stayed in the house – he didn't like the noise of the fireworks! It was a great evening and I was really happy.

READING • A moment in time

I can predict what an article is about using the title and photos.

THINK! What animals do you like most?

HOW A PHOTO CHANGED MY LIFE

"Koala Man" David Tree woke up one morning to find his photograph on the front page of newspapers around the world.

It was one of the hottest summers in memory in the state of Victoria, Australia. Bush fires* were burning very close to people's homes and they were in danger. In every town, volunteers were fighting the fires. David Tree was one of these volunteer firefighters.

On 9 February, Mr Tree was working with his team near his home town of Mirboo. They were fighting a bush fire. They were driving up Samson Road when Mr Tree saw a koala. It was walking across the burned ground, and it didn't look happy. "There's a koala, stop the truck," he shouted and jumped out. "I videoed the koala for my daughter Cheyenne, and yelled for a bottle of water." Firefighter Mark Pardew took the photo while the koala was drinking from a bottle. "Koalas are usually unfriendly but this one took David's hand," said

David Tree shares his water with an injured koala.

Mr Pardew. "She was extremely tired and thirsty." A friend took the injured animal to a wildlife centre. At the centre, they named her Sam after Samson Road.

Later Mr Pardew emailed the photo to friends and someone sent it to the local newspaper. From there, it went around the world and David Tree became a celebrity.

5 READING • The brain

I can guess words in a text I don't know by looking at the context.

THINK! What do you know about the brain? Who is the person in the photo?

THE HUMAN BRAIN

A user's guide

What's in a brain?

The average brain weighs 1.35 kilos, 75% of which is water. It contains about 100 billion cells and approximately 160,000 kilometres of blood vessels.

Are human brains the biggest?

No. Large whales, elephants and dolphins all have larger brains.

What's IQ?

Intelligence quotient, which we can measure in tests. The average IQ is between 90 and 110 out of a maximum of 175. The most intelligent people have IQs of about 160. Albert Einstein's IQ was around 162.

Are our brains changing?

They're three times bigger than they were seven million years ago, and IQ scores are higher now than they were even a few decades ago.

Do people who are more intelligent have bigger brains?

Sometimes. The 'maths and space' part of Einstein's brain was 35% wider than normal.

What's good for your brain?

The best things for your brain are sleep, exercise, water and 'brain food', like fish, fruit, vegetables and nuts. And a glass of water before a test can also improve your score.

What's bad for your brain?

Sugar, alcohol and some food additives are some of the worst things for your brain. In a study of one million students, those who had healthier lunches without artificial ingredients did 14% better on IQ tests.

And exercise? Can you train your brain?

Yes, it's a bit like a muscle. If you use it more, it works better. The lazier you are about using your brain, the less well it works. Are you using your brain today?

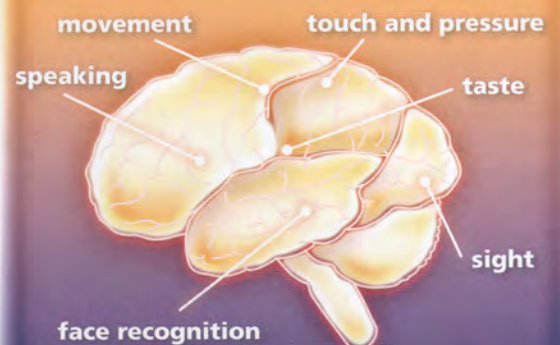

1 Read the text quickly. Find the words in the box in the text. What do you think they mean? Compare with your partner.

Agatha Christie

¹Agatha Christie was a British writer. She was born in England in 1890 and died there in 1976.

²She first started writing when she was sixteen. Later, when she was a nurse, she had the idea for a detective story and she published her first novel in 1920. She was a very shy person, so she was happier to stay in and write than to meet people.

³Agatha Christie eventually became one of the most popular writers in history. She wrote more than sixty novels, as well as plays and poetry, and sold more than two billion books. START THINKING What's your favourite song? Why do you like it?

▶ THE REVIEW SITE

Title / Band: Where do broken hearts go?
by One Direction

Reviewer: Mia ★★

One Direction's songs have usually got a good guitar and energetic chorus. The lyrics are all about love, as usual, but the words aren't really very interesting. In fact, they're boring. One Direction fans will obviously love this. For me, however, it sounds the same as all of their other songs.

Title / Band: Blame by Calvin Harris
(feat. John Newman)

Reviewer: Paul ★★★★★

If you like dancing, you'll love this. Like most dance songs, the drum beat is more important than the lyrics. The song starts off with Newman's fantastic voice and some great keyboards, and it gets better and better. This song rocks!

Title / Band: On sight by Kanye West

Reviewer: Nico ★

If you're into Kanye West then maybe this is for you, but it's not easy to listen to. The keyboard and chorus sound weird, and it doesn't work for me. This is Kanye at his strangest.

8 READING • Scream machines

I can identify the main idea in an article.

THINK! What is a 'scream machine'? (If you can't guess, look at the photo to help you.)

SCREAM MACHINES

Scary or fun?

Why do millions of people love roller coasters? The answer is that people love feeling afraid when they know they're in no real danger. But Jane Clark has never been on a roller coaster. She is frightened of heights and speed. 'It's ridiculous. All my friends have ridden on roller coasters, and they love it,' says Jane. 'I've always wanted to try, but I've never been brave enough.' Well, Jane has decided that today this is going to change. She has bought a ticket for Oblivion and her friends are here to support her. Her heart is beating and she can't speak as she gets in. Then they're off. People are screaming because they're scared, or is it because they're excited? She screams, too. Three minutes later, it's all over. Jane is happy. She's done it! She's been on her first roller coaster. 'Words can't describe it!' she says.

But for some people, roller coaster phobia never goes away. Psychologist Frank Farley believes that there are two types of people when it comes to fear and risk. Some people prefer the quiet life. For others, danger and excitement make them feel alive. Their brains produce 'feel-good' chemicals in risky situations, and they love extreme sports like climbing or paragliding. Roller coasters are great for these people because they can get the excitement without the danger. The chance of a fatal accident is one in 50 billion. Driving to the amusement park is more dangerous than riding on a 'scream machine'!

1 Read the article. What is Jane Clark's problem?

2 2.24 Read and listen to the article again and complete the sentences.

- Jane Clark is scared of and
- Jane is going on Oblivion because she wants to be

- 2 3.27 Read and listen to the first part of the text. Why do some people use sign language? What is the name for people who can't hear?

Speaking with your hands

British Sign Language (BSL) is the sign language used by many deaf people in the United Kingdom. BSL is an officially recognised language and is the first or preferred language of 125,000 deaf adults in the UK and about 20,000 children. It is a non-written language for people who can't hear other people speak. People who can hear and who communicate with deaf people also use it.

- 3 3.28 Read the second part of the text and match headings a–d with sections 1–4. Listen and check.

a Movement b Hand shapes
c Non-manual features d Placement

BSL is only one of about 300 sign languages in use in the world today. There isn't a sign for every word in the equivalent spoken language. Instead, one sign made with the hands can sometimes mean a single word, and at other times can communicate a complete phrase.

Sign languages haven't got the same grammatical structures as the other word-based languages we learn in school. Often, the order of signs that make a phrase or question is different from the order of the spoken-word language. For example, 'Where are you from?' in English is signed as 'From where you?'

Everyone who uses and understands sign language, however, uses the same basic principles of communication:

- – how the hands are used. The hands are the most important parts of the body when using sign language.
- – how and where people put their hands on the head, face or body.
- – moving your hands up or down, from right to left, or in a circle.
- – the head, face and body can show the difference, for example, between a statement and a question, or between a positive and a negative.

- 4 Read both parts of the text again and write true or false. Correct the false sentences.

- Only deaf people use sign language.
- There are about 300 different versions of sign language all over the world.
- Every word in a spoken language has an equivalent sign.
- Sign language uses the same grammar as its equivalent spoken language.

- 5 Match the descriptions of signs 1–5 with pictures A–E.

- The primary index finger touches the chest.
- The closed primary hand makes a circle on the chest.
- The index and middle fingers of the primary hand touch the ear.
- The primary hand is on the secondary hand, with short shaking up and down.
- Both hands are flat, with the primary hand on the secondary hand. The hands make a single movement downwards in front of the body.

About the story

The Duke of Holderness's son is ¹..... from his boarding school. The teachers at the school think the boy ²..... because he was unhappy. Strangely, a German teacher at the school, Heidegger, is also missing. The other teachers think Heidegger ³..... out of his bedroom window. The boy and the German teacher didn't know each other and Heidegger took his bicycle with him. Sherlock Holmes and Dr Watson are trying to find the boy.

- 2 Why do you think the Duke sent his son to a boarding school?
- 3 Would you like to go to a boarding school? Why / Why not?

Sherlock Holmes and the Duke's son

Holmes began at once to work on the case. We looked carefully all through the boy's bedroom, and the German teacher's room. We looked at the ivy on the wall, and we saw the footprints under the German teacher's window. But we learnt nothing new. Holmes then left the house, and only came back after eleven o'clock. He had with him a large map.

'This case is beginning to get interesting, Watson,' he said. 'Look at this map. Here is the school, you see, and here is the road. So, did the boy and the teacher go along the road when they left? No, Watson, they did not!'

'How do you know that, Holmes?' I asked.

'Because there was a policeman here from midnight to six in the morning, and he saw nobody on the road. And here at the other end, you see, is the White Horse Inn. A woman there was ill, and the family watched the road all night, waiting for the doctor. The doctor didn't come until the morning, and the family saw nobody on the road. So the boy and the teacher did not go by road.'

'But, Holmes, what about the bicycle?' I asked.

'Yes, Watson, but first, let's look to the south and the north. To the south we have a big river – no bicycles there. And to the north we have the trees, called Ragged Shaw, and then a great moor.'

'But the bicycle?' I asked again.

'Yes, yes, Watson!' Holmes said. 'It is possible to ride a bicycle across the moor – difficult, but possible.'

- Which film-makers and studios worked on the film?
- What animation techniques did they use?
- Was it a blockbuster?
- What do you like about it?

Give your presentation to the class.

The history of animation

In the 1880s, British photographer Eadweard Muybridge, invented the zoopraxiscope. This machine took photographs of moving things. He put them onto discs and as the discs turned, the photographs seemed to move. This was a very early form of animation.

In 1895, the Lumière brothers invented the world's first film camera, the cinematograph. Early film-makers used it to make stop-motion animation. They filmed objects, one picture at a time, moved the object, then filmed again. Film-makers used this technique to make King Kong in 1933. Stop-motion animation never became very popular, because it's an extremely slow process. However, some film-makers, for example Nick Park, still make films like Shaun the Sheep in this way.

In the 1920s, famous animator Walt Disney started to make animated films with drawings, not photos. Artists drew the pictures onto a transparent piece of plastic, or cel. The film-makers put the cels on top of painted backgrounds and photographed them one at a time. This technique is called 'hand-drawn animation'. In 1928, Disney studios introduced the character of Mickey Mouse in the first cartoon with sound, Steamboat Willie.

People started using computer animation in the 1960s. At first, computers could only make simple stick figures move on film, but by the 1990s, studios were using realistic computer-generated imagery (CGI) for special effects. Soon, they were producing completely computer-animated films; Toy Story (1995) was the first fully computer-animated film.

CURRICULUM EXTRA • Science: Average speed

I can calculate speed using distance and time.

1 Read the text and answer questions 1–4.

In the 200 m freestyle, swimmers must swim four lengths of the pool. The pool is 50 m long. The table below shows the time that it took four swimmers to complete each length.

Length number	1	2	3	4	Total number of seconds
Name
Fields	40	41	39	41	161
Gomez	40	37	36	39	152
Jones	39	42	40	38	159
O'Hara	38	37	39	37	151

- Who had the fastest length?
- Who had the slowest length?
- Who finished first?
- Who finished last?

2 Check the meaning of the words in the box. Then read the equations and answer questions 1–2.

distance time average speed
calculate equation

The winner of the race is the person who has the fastest average speed.

To calculate average speed, you need the following equation:

$$\frac{\text{distance}}{\text{time}} = \text{average speed}$$ distance: the race was 200 m.

time: Fields completed the 200 m in 161 seconds.

So, average speed:

$$\frac{200}{161} = 1.24 \text{ metres per second (m/s)}$$

To calculate average speed in kilometres per hour (km/h), use this equation:

$$\text{average speed in m/s} \times 3.6 = \text{average speed in km/h.}$$

- Look again at the table in exercise 1. Calculate the average speed of Gomez, Jones and O'Hara in m/s.
- Now calculate the average speed of all the swimmers in km/h.

3  USE IT! Read the sentences and find each average speed in km/h.

- In 2014 Dennis Kimetto completed the Berlin Marathon in 2 hours, 2 minutes and 57 seconds (2.05 hours). The marathon was 42.19 kilometres.
- In 2014 Dame Sarah Storey completed the 3 kilometre para-cycling track race in 3 hours, 32 minutes and 5 seconds (3.54 hours).
- In 2009 Usain Bolt ran 100 metres in 9.58 seconds.
- In 2014 Sarah Sjöström swam the 50 m butterfly in 24.43 seconds.

If you use my application, you'll ...

To use it, you must ... and ...

You should / shouldn't ...

The USA invented the Global Positioning System (GPS) in the 1970s. At first, it was a military project, but now anyone with a smartphone can use the system to find out exactly where they are, and ¹..... their movements. For GPS to work, your ²..... (or smartphone) must be in contact with four or more satellites in space. They send signals with their exact time and location. Your smartphone uses this data to calculate its position on Earth.

In a survival situation, however, it's not enough to know your position. Survival experts know that if you move freely through the jungle or desert, you will always walk in a giant circle. To escape safely, you must also know your direction (which way you are moving) and your ³..... (how fast you are moving). GPS provides this information, by tracking your position over time.

For modern explorers, a smartphone and GPS are as important for survival as a compass, torch and map. If you download the right ⁴....., your smartphone will save your life in a survival situation. You should make sure your smartphone has these things:

- A personal locator ⁵..... This receives GPS signals, and it can also tell rescue services your location.
- ⁶..... maps. With GPS, you can use these to track your location when you haven't got an internet connection.
- First aid and survival advice. You should download these and store them on your phone, so if you need them, they'll be there for you.

I can talk about different musical instruments and how they produce sounds.

- d when we dance.
- e on the piano, brass and wind instruments.
- f to make sound.

3 Complete the instructions for playing the musical instruments with the words in the boxes. Which musical instruments do you think A–C describe?

keys notes strings

This instrument is very large, and the player sits down to play it. It has 88 ¹....., 52 white ones and 36 black. There are ²..... inside the instrument, but we can't see them. When you play the instrument, these vibrate to make music. You can play high and low-pitched ³.....

hits loud percussion rhythm

In a pop group, a player usually uses these ⁴..... instruments to keep the ⁵..... of the song. There are usually around five of these, and the player ⁶..... them. Often they make a very ⁷..... sound.

blows keys pitched

This is a small brass instrument. The player ⁸..... into it and moves the ⁹..... to make a sound. It makes mostly high-¹⁰..... sounds.

Pitch Perfect

Imagine you're going to listen to a piece of music. What sounds will you hear? When we play musical instruments, they make sounds by vibrating the air. We can easily recognize the different groups of instruments: strings, percussion, wind and brass.

When a composer is going to write a piece of music, he or she must organize the sounds, using pitch and rhythm.

Pitch and rhythm

Pitch is the level of the note, and it can be high or low. Most pieces of music have groups of repeated sounds, with a regular time interval between them. These are called the rhythm, and when we dance, we move to the rhythm of the song.

As an orchestra plays, we hear many instruments together.

String instruments

In an orchestra, these include the violin, cello and double bass. Musicians produce sounds by making the strings vibrate. Short, tight strings make the pitch higher in the violin, and long, loose strings make it lower in the double bass. The piano also has strings which vibrate, but we press keys to make the pitch higher or lower.

Percussion instruments

Percussion players hit instruments like the drums and cymbals, and this often marks the rhythm of a piece of music. A xylophone is also a percussion instrument.

Brass and woodwind instruments

Musicians blow into brass instruments like the trumpet or trombone, or woodwind instruments like the flute or clarinet. They play them by putting their fingers on holes or keys, which makes the pitch higher or lower. This changes how much vibrating air is inside the instrument.

4  USE IT! Choose two different musical instruments, and write descriptions of how a player creates sounds with them. Read your descriptions to a partner. Can you guess the instruments?

ADRENALINE: FIGHT OR FLIGHT?

What scary experiences have you had? Maybe you get nervous about heights, and you have wanted to cry when you were at the top of a rollercoaster. Or maybe you're afraid of spiders, and you feel panic when you see one. At that moment, your body has an automatic reaction. This physical reaction to fear is called 'fight or flight'. It's important because it helps protect us from danger.

The 'fight or flight' reaction prepares the body to face a danger: to fight it or run away fast.

When we see a danger, the brain produces a hormone called adrenaline. This causes physical reactions in different parts of your body. Your breathing becomes faster. Your heart beats faster, moving the blood in the body to your muscles, so that you are ready to move. Your pupils become larger, so you can see better, and sweat cools your skin.

Some people enjoy this physical reaction to fear. They love going on rollercoasters, watching horror films or doing extreme sports. But others don't like the sensation of fight or flight. They keep away from scary situations. Which are you?

- 3 Read the text again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why is the fight or flight reaction important?
- 2 What does the brain do when you're in a dangerous situation?
- 3 Why does the blood move to your muscles?

2 3.34 Read and listen to the text about British teenagers. How many British girls practise a sport regularly?

3 Read the text again and write true or false. Correct the false sentences.

- British teenagers are quite active.
- Boys play computer games for about 20 hours a week.
- About half of teenagers do sport for three hours a week.
- Students don't usually have lessons on Saturdays.
- Students only go to clubs after school.

4 YOUR CULTURE Ask and answer the questions with a partner.

- Do teenagers in your country watch a lot of TV / videos? How do they watch it / them?
- How many teenagers have got their own tablets?
- What are your favourite possessions?
- What sports do boys / girls generally do?
- What clubs can you do during lunch or after school?

5 USE IT! Think about how you spend your time and what is important to you. Copy and complete the table with information about you and your classmates. Then write a short report about how teenagers spend their time in your country.

Free time	Sports	Possessions	School clubs

About 75% of my class do sports in their free time. Our favourite sport is football, but over half the class also go swimming.

Leisure time activities

Most teenagers are not very active. Their favourite pastime is watching TV or videos. Over 60% of British children and teenagers watch these in their bedroom – on TV or on other devices. Boys watch TV or videos for about 20 hours a week. They also like computer games. Sixty-five per cent play computer games and use a games console. A few teenagers have got their own tablets, and they spend a lot of time chatting to friends using these or their mobile phone. Another favourite pastime is listening to music. Seventy-eight per cent of teenagers like listening to music, on various devices.

Sport

Around 50% of teenagers do sports for three hours a week or more. Seventy-five per cent of British boys play a team sport or game. But only 40% of girls do any sport. Favourite sports for boys are football, cricket, swimming and cycling. Favourite sports for girls are hockey, swimming, dancing and aerobics.

Possessions

We live in a consumer world and today's young people have got many things. These are the favourite possessions of British teenagers: their mobile phone (or tablet if they have one), their video games and their trainers.

School

British students usually go to school from Monday to Friday. Sometimes they go to school on Saturday when they're in a school sports team. The school day is usually from 9.00 a.m. to 3.30 p.m. Students often have lunch at school in the canteen. They usually wear a uniform. Schools sometimes have 'clubs' after school or during the lunch hour. These are usually music clubs (singing in a choir or playing an instrument in an orchestra), sports clubs or drama clubs. Ninety per cent of British children go to state schools. Only 9% go to private schools.

2 Options CULTURE • TV in the USA

I can write about my TV habits.

A national obsession?

Americans watch a lot of television. About ¹..... homes in the USA have at least one television. The average American watches TV for about ²..... hours a day, and ³..... of people regularly watch TV at dinner time. In fact, on average, Americans spend about ⁴..... of their entire lives watching TV!

Maybe this isn't surprising. The USA was one of the first countries to sell TVs, and the first regular programmes started in ⁵..... Classic programmes from the past that people all over the world still love today – drama series like Star Trek and comedies like Friends – are American.

Today, the most popular types of TV programme in the USA are drama series like Game of Thrones and talent shows like Dancing with the Stars. People say that American TV is in a 'golden age' – there is a big choice of quality drama series that people can watch and enjoy. However, for the number of people watching a single event on TV, nothing beats the Super Bowl, the most important American Football game of the year. Every January, millions of people watch the game, and in 2015 ⁶..... people watched it on TV, the biggest audience ever for a US TV show.

However, there are signs that TVs – if not TV programmes – are becoming less important in American life. Young people who use laptops and tablets in school don't buy TVs when they get a job and buy a house. They prefer watching programmes and films online, which they stream from companies like Netflix and YouTube. About ⁷..... homes in the USA are now 'broadband only' – they don't have a TV but instead stream or download programmes. By doing this, they are free to choose when and where, and what, they want to watch from this golden age of American TV programmes.

Thanksgiving Day

Americans celebrate the Thanksgiving holiday on the fourth Thursday of November. Families meet for a special Thanksgiving meal. Traditional foods are an important part of the festival, and include turkey, corn and potatoes. Pumpkin pie is a popular dessert. After the meal, families do activities together or watch TV.

The Thanksgiving festival celebrates the first harvest of the Pilgrims. The Pilgrims were a group of religious settlers. They left England in September 1620 and travelled to America on a ship called the Mayflower. When they arrived two months later, life was very hard. They were very cold and they didn't have enough food. That winter, half of the settlers died. A Native American leader called Squanto visited the settlers, and he decided to help them. His people showed the settlers how to grow corn and vegetables and how to hunt animals for food.

In autumn 1621, the Pilgrims had a good harvest. They decided to have a thanksgiving festival to thank God for their lives and good health. They invited the Native Americans. Some of the Pilgrims hunted turkey for the meal. The Native Americans also took food for the meal, including fish, fruit, and cornbread. For three days, the English and native men, women and children ate together. They played games, sang songs and danced. It was the start of a long tradition.

CULTURE • Selfie culture

I can talk about 'selfies' as an art form.

Selfies: The new art form?

In 2013 the Oxford English Dictionary made selfie the word of the year. The word has also entered many other languages, for example as das Selfie in German and le selfie in French. So, what is a selfie and where does the word come from?

The Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary defines it as 'a photo of yourself that you take, typically with a smartphone or a webcam, and usually put on a social networking site'. The word originates from the term ¹..... – an art form that is hundreds of years old. The artist Van Gogh painted many of these; in this painting he is holding a palette and a ²....., but in today's world, swap this for a smartphone.

But is it art? Van Gogh was a very talented artist, but today anyone can take a photo of themselves. Most people have cameras on their phones and many selfies are of poor ³..... However, some people argue that it is a form of art. The National #Selfie Portrait Gallery in London exists to explore the value of selfies as an art form. These teenagers certainly think selfies are an art form.

I took this selfie when I was swimming in the Red Sea. We were on holiday in Egypt. I posted it on my Facebook page and it got over 5,000 likes!

Mikey

The background is a bit ⁴..... in this selfie but I think that adds to the ⁵..... It looks as though we are moving but actually we were standing on the steps outside our school.

Alissa

I love taking selfies and being creative. Is it art? Definitely!

RUNNING FOR LIFE

In 2014, Kenyan runner Dennis Kimetto made a new world record. He finished the Berlin marathon in just 2 hours, 2 minutes and 57 seconds. He ran 26 seconds faster than the previous world champion, Wilson Kipsang. Kipsang also came from Kenya. Many great Olympic runners are Kenyan.

Why are Kenyan athletes the world's greatest runners? What is their secret? Is it the altitude? Is it the food? Nobody knows for sure, but there are a few theories.

Kimetto, Kipsang, and most of the great Kenyan Olympic champions grew up in one of the poorest regions of Kenya. They lived far away from their schools. In these areas, children get up early and run up to ten kilometres to and from school each day. Then, after school, they work on farms. This active lifestyle develops their muscles and long-distance running ability.

But maybe there is another reason for their success. Like other Kenyan runners, Kimetto's parents couldn't afford trainers, so he ran barefoot. It is possible that running without shoes is better for our feet. Athletes first started wearing modern trainers in 1972. In the following decades, the number of leg injuries increased. Now more people are running barefoot or wearing thin shoes. They say that they can run better and they have fewer injuries.

But the Kenyans have another lesson to teach us: the human body is made for running, not sitting. Studies show that running is good for us. It's better to go running than spend our free time in front of TV and computer screens.

One small step

On 20 July 1969, Commander Neil Armstrong and Edwin 'Buzz' Aldrin landed on the moon, four days after taking off from Kennedy Space Center in their ¹....., Apollo 11. About 600 million people around the world were watching on TV when they landed near the Sea of Tranquillity. People who were alive at the time remember the event very well.

Neil Armstrong was born on 5 August 1930 in Ohio in the USA. When he was five, he went on his first ²..... with his father in an old Ford Trimotor, and his fascination with flying began. On his sixteenth birthday, Armstrong got a student's ³....., and in the same year he went on his first solo flight. This was before he even got his driving licence. In September 1962, Armstrong joined the NASA Astronaut Corps and began training in Houston, Texas. In January 1969 he became commander of the Apollo 11 ⁴..... to the moon.

Six hours after he landed on 20 July, Armstrong became the first person to walk on the moon, saying 'That's one small step for (a) man, one giant leap for ⁵.....'. Armstrong and Aldrin were wearing space suits with 21 layers that protected their bodies from extreme temperatures; during the day it can be 120°C on the moon, and at night it can be -150° C. The two astronauts spent two and a half hours walking on the moon, exploring and collecting rocks and other material, before they returned to Earth. They landed back in the Pacific Ocean four days later.

Neil Armstrong died on 7 August 2012. President Obama said he was 'among the greatest of American heroes – not just of his time, but of all time.' He said that Armstrong's walk on the moon was 'a moment of human ⁶..... that will never be forgotten'.

A SUCCESS STORY

When Jamal Edwards was sixteen years old he was just a normal teenager from London. Just a few years later, he became a multimillionaire. He is now the boss of one of the most successful music channels on YouTube, and he even received an award from the Queen for his services to music. So, what's his story?

Jamal was born in 1990. When he was sixteen, he received a video camera for Christmas. At first, Jamal filmed things near his home. One day, he made a video of foxes in his garden. Jamal uploaded the video to the internet and received 1,000 visits! He had an idea: he could combine his love of filming with his other passion: grime music.

Grime is a type of hip hop music that started in London. There weren't any grime artists on TV at the time, so Jamal started filming them when they were performing in the street and at concerts. Then he uploaded the videos to the internet. Thousands of people watched and downloaded them.

Jamal was ambitious, and in 2007 he started his own online TV station, SBTV. At first, he just showed grime music videos, but he soon added live concerts and interviews with musicians. Then he started including different types of music to attract more viewers. The strategy worked, and today, SBTV is one of the largest music channels for young people.

Now, at the age of twenty-four, Jamal is famous in Britain for his business achievements. He runs several different companies in the music business, as well as other areas. He also wrote a very popular e-book, and designed clothes for the popular fashion shop Topman. Not bad for a hobby that started with a Christmas present!

New Zealand is a small country – south-east of Australia – with about 4 million inhabitants. There are two main islands: the South Island with its high mountains and the North Island with its beautiful beaches and volcanoes. Fourteen per cent of New Zealanders are Maori, but most people have British origins. Their ancestors came from Britain in the 19th and 20th centuries.

New Zealand is famous for its beautiful scenery and outdoor activities. It attracts lovers of nature and fans of dangerous sports. Many of them combine these interests when they visit Queenstown – ‘the extreme sports capital of the world’ – on the South Island.

The first Europeans came to the area in the 1860s to farm and look for gold. Queenstown was very quiet for 100 years. Slowly, it became a popular fishing and hiking centre. Today, people from around the world come to do extreme sports. How did this happen?

It started in 1988 with the world’s first bungee-jumping centre. This attracted people from around the world who were looking for fear without danger. Bungee-jumping is great because it’s scary but safe! Today, there are lots more frightening activities in and around Queenstown. In the summer, you can choose from bungee-jumping, hang-gliding, jet-boating, mountain biking, paragliding, skydiving and white-water rafting. In the winter, thousands of people go skiing or snowboarding in the Remarkables, the mountains around Queenstown.

But Queenstown is not only for daredevils. It’s a quiet town with a dry climate and the region around it has lovely rivers, mountains and lakes. You can go walking, cycling, or just relax. It’s a beautiful place to visit.

Trampolining – fly high! by Max

You're flying 3 metres in the air. It feels amazing. This is the trampoline experience. You feel like a bird. It's great because everyone can do it. You don't need to be sporty. At Trampoline Club, all ages enjoy trampolining. Some students come on Friday evenings just for fun. I'm in the advanced group. We train twice a week and again on Saturdays. We're training for the inter-school competition at the moment.

There are sections for different levels from beginners to competition level. We're having our open evening on 16 October. Come and try. Everyone can do it!

My photo album

by Sophie Anderson

I was five in this photo with my cousin Clara (right) in Scotland. It's a great memory because it was my first experience of snow. We made this snowman in the garden and called him Winston.

My family at our house last summer. Copper (our dog) looks pleased, but grandad doesn't. Grandad was doing the barbecue. When he wasn't looking, Copper ate the chicken. It was very funny!

Wales

Me with classmates on a school trip last February. We were staying in a centre in the French Alps and we had skiing lessons every day. This is the last day. It was a fantastic trip.

I went fishing there with my friend John and his family. John caught half a fish! He is smiling in the photo, but he wasn't very happy. I didn't catch any fish!

Me!

I was visiting Sydney with my family and Mum took this photo in front of the famous Opera House. We had an amazing time. We travelled around Australia for three weeks.

Five scary things to do around the world

Here is our choice of the five scariest things to do in the world. If you enjoy feeling scared, you'll love these activities! What do you think?

1 Cage of Death – Crocosaurus Cove, Australia

For fifteen minutes, you can be face-to-face with some really big (and dangerous!) crocodiles. Two people can get in the glass cage, so you won't be alone. Pure terror!

Only for the very brave! Takabisha is the steepest roller coaster in the world with a free fall of 121° (arghhh!!) and a drop of 43 metres. Each ride takes 112 seconds, which seems like a very long time!

Takabisha roller coaster – Fujiyoshida, Japan

3 The Edge Walk – Toronto, Canada

You walk around the edge of Toronto's tallest building, the CN Tower. You can have amazing views of the whole city as you walk hands free 356 metres above the ground. Wow!

You see the jungle from the tops of the trees as you fly along the zipline, 80 metres above the ground, with a Tarzan jump in the middle! What's more, you may meet some monkeys. Amazing!

Zip line – Monteverde Cloud Forest, Costa Rica

5 Cable car – Tianmen Mountain, China

The 7,455-metre-long cable car ride at Tianmen Mountain in China is the world's longest. It climbs 1279 metres and is as steep as 38° in places. The ride takes 28 minutes from start to finish. Not for people who are nervous of heights.

A good idea

 'Why don't you get up and go to school?'

 In class, at the back you're talking to your friends
 And your teacher tells you off again

You think:

'I often just want to go home
 I always want to stay in bed
 And be alone.
 Sitting on the sofa,
 In front of the ² TV / computer
 Is a good idea for me
 Sounds like a great idea to me.'

You see your dad in town, and he says to you
 'How about going for a walk?'
 Then you go out to a ³ restaurant / café and eat fast food

And he says 'Let's finish your homework'
 But you don't really feel like studying now –
 You prefer playing video games.

Then next ⁴ month / week you're on holiday.
 You always love being on holiday.
 What will you do on holiday?
 You feel like doing everything!

You get up ⁵ late / early and your mum says,
 'Why don't you go out to the park?'
 So you get your things, and you call your friends
 And you play sports all ⁶ afternoon / morning
 Your dad wants to go out to the cinema
 So you run home from the park, and you go in the ⁷ car / bus.

And you think:

A When I was young it was exciting
 We²..... round the world

 But when my dad said 'Let's go!'
 I was never bored.

Here is my history in a song
 Where I went, what I⁵.....,
 What went right and what went wrong

B In the year 2010,
 We⁶..... some friends
 We⁷..... in an ancient castle
 Built by a rich and cruel queen
 We⁸..... some scary rooms
 We learned some awful secrets
 But I wasn't scared, I was happy
 We⁹..... some exciting things.

C But the best day of my life
 Was last summer when I¹⁰..... you.
 There are lots of brilliant places
 I want to take you to.
 It was the best day, the best day
 The best day I ever knew.
 The story of my life, when I met you.
