The importance of a great ad

Making a good advertisement is not complicated, but many people get it wrong. Here are some simple tips that you can follow to make a great advertisement.

1 Show people why you are special

There is always a lot of competition, so you need to show and tell your audience why you are special. When people see your advertisement, do you want them to think, "That might be a good product" or "That must be a great product!"

2 Use a powerful slogan

The slogan you choose should make a statement. It expresses the central idea of your business. Look at some examples of slogans from other companies. Which slogans do you recognize before you even see the name of the company? That's the kind of slogan you need.

3 Talk about the benefits

Will your product benefit others? How? Your audience want to have their lives changed. How can your product do that?

4 Use exciting graphics

Advertisements should be visually appealing. Like your slogan, you want your logo to be recognized and noticeable. Find a good designer to design an attractive logo for your product.

5 Use sponsors

A sponsorship from a celebrity or a famous entertainer will help to sell your product. You might want to wait until your business is operating successfully, and then you could look for celebrities to sponsor you.

6 Include contact information

Important!

Good luck and remember: making a great ad doesn't have to be complicated!

- 1 It's a good idea to copy slogans from other companies if they are successful.
