TAPESCRIPT

1

Dave: We need to decide what we're getting for Lisa's birthday. Have you got any ideas, Rose?

Rose: Well, Dave, Mum lent me ten euros and I've got five, so that makes fifteen.

What do you think we can get for that?

Dave: I've got five euros as well, so that means we've got twenty, so how about a couple of DVDs? You know how she loves romantic comedies.

2

Maria: Excuse me, please. I'm looking for some black jeans.

Male assistant: Yes, of course. They're all over there. What size are you? I'm guessing 38 or 40.

Maria: I'm not sure but I think probably 42.

Male assistant: Well, why don't you try a few?

3

Mark: How about trying the new coffee shop that's just opened? I saw an ad in the local paper and they're offering a discount on anything you have to drink during the first week.

Laura: What kind of discount?

Mark: Fifteen per cent.

Laura: Wow, that's amazing. What are we waiting for?! I'm really thirsty, so let's go!

4

Grandma: Goodness me, Jack, I can't believe how much you've grown. You were only about one metre sixty the last time I saw you. How tall are you now? One eighty-five?

Jack: Well, you haven't seen me for ages, Grandma, so it's hardly surprising. Actually, I'm the tallest boy in my school ... one metre ninety-five.

5

Emma: I've found a really good recipe for a chocolate cake but first we need to check that we have all the ingredients. Can you tell me how much flour we need?

Ben: Four hundred and fifty grams.

Emma: Are you sure?

Ben: That's what it says ... oh and two hundred and fifty grams of butter, two hundred and fifteen grams of sugar, four eggs and one hundred millilitres of milk.
