Advice for travelling

Travelling and holidays are wonderful, but they can bring some problems. We asked three people for their advice. Let's see what they say.

MALIA: When you visit a city, always download a map of the city transport as well as a street map. It's easier to check train and bus times on your phone. Also, check your hotel has everything you need. I went to a hotel that didn't have parking last year. The place I parked in was really expensive so next time, I'm going to check that before I book a room.

DAMIAN: Don't spend too much time looking for information on the internet before your trip. I think it's better to look for places when you arrive. Last year, I went to Tokyo and walked around without a plan. I found some great restaurants! Remember to think carefully about what you're going to wear, too. I always take a jacket and jumper because many places get cold at night, even in the summer.

SUZANNA: I really enjoy planning holidays. I think everyone should make a list to help them remember what to take. A few years ago, I went on a walking holiday and I didn't take my boots. I spent two days trying to find some new ones!
