Example answer:

Dear Sir / Madam,

I am writing because I am planning to buy a new computer.

I am interested in the DF5237 in your shop. Before buying one, I would like to ask some questions.

Could you tell me how big the screen is? I would also like to know if I can choose the colour. I would also like to know how much the computer costs. Finally, could you tell me whether you can deliver it to my house?

Thank you for your attention and I hope to hear from you soon.

Yours faithfully,

1 (What are you doing after this lesson?)

I'm going home for my dinner.

2 (What plans have you got for the weekend?)

I'm going to play badminton on Saturday and I'm going to see my cousins on Sunday.

3 (Have you got a good memory?)

I've got a really bad memory. I always forget my friends' birthdays.

4 (How do you learn new things?)

I have to note them down to help me remember them.

5 (What activities are important to you?)

I do karate and that's important to me because it's good exercise and I see other people.

Ex 3

Example answer:

In this picture, there are three people working at a desk.

There's a man and two women. They're quite young and they're wearing fashionable clothes. I think they're in an office because I can see papers and a computer screen.

They seem to be talking about something together and one of the women is writing something in a notebook. I think they're making some plans about work because they look serious. Maybe they're deciding how they're going to solve a problem.

Great to hear from you. I'm pleased you're doing well.

You asked about starting a new free-time activity. Firstly, you should decide what you want to do. You could try sports or studying something. Sports are healthier, but studying's good, too. Next, try to find out about activities in your area. Most sports centres and evening schools have their own webpage. Lastly, don't be afraid to try the activity first. If you like it, you can carry on!

One idea is to teach children about how to use electronic devices in a responsible way. Unfortunately, a lot of them don't know about the social and health issues. The problem is that these devices can be fun and children forget about other things they could do with their time. We need to make sure there are opportunities for them to do sports, join clubs and hang out with other young people. We should build more sports clubs and places where they can do exercise and try new sports. We could also organise more clubs and activities for them to do after school.

Ex 6

Example answer:

One idea is to teach children about how to use electronic devices in a responsible way. Unfortunately, a lot of them don't know about the social and health issues. The problem is that these devices can be fun and children forget about other things they could do with their time. We need to make sure there are opportunities for them to do sports, join clubs and hang out with other young people. We should build more sports clubs and places where they can do exercise and try new sports. We could also organise more clubs and activities for them to do after school.

I think the boy with the newspaper has read something funny and he wanted to show it to them.

Line of Duty is one of my favourite TV programmes. It's a police drama which focuses on a team of police officers. They have to find out if other police officers are involved in crime.

I like it because you never know if the police officers are good or bad. Because of that, it's more original than other police dramas. It's not just heroes against bad guys. Sometimes the heroes are also the bad guys!

While other police dramas just copy each other, Line of Duty is different. The actors are outstanding and the stories are creative. If you like police series, you must watch Line of Duty!

It's probably David Copperfield by Charles Dickens. It's amazing.

5 (Who's the most creative person you know?)

I think it's my friend Lola. She makes her own clothes and jewellery.

Ex 3

Example answer:

This picture shows three young people who are standing in an art gallery. The people are quite young and they're wearing fashionable clothes. I think they might be art students. Also, there are lots of pictures on the walls. The people are looking at one of the pictures, but I can't tell what it is. A couple of years ago my car broke down so I took it to a mechanic. She said she couldn't repair it so I decided to try to do it myself.

I looked online and I found a discussion forum where people talked about similar problems. After reading a few comments, I worked out what the problem was. I couldn't fix it immediately because I needed to replace some parts. Luckily, I could get them online. I followed the instructions on the forum and it worked!

It hasn't broken down since then, but if it stops working again, I'll be able to fix it myself.

Hi Mariona,

I've just finished my English course.

It's been an interesting experience and I've learnt a lot.

I did plenty of speaking practice and I speak much better now. My teacher said my writing had improved as well.

At first, it was difficult to learn new vocabulary, but the teacher showed us how to memorise new words.

It helped me a lot and I can still remember a lot of the words. I hadn't expected the course to be fun, but it was amazing. The other students were friendly and I felt connected to them by the end.

Please write back soon.

I live in Barcelona and there are lots of fascinating monuments here. You must visit the Sagrada Familia which is a huge church. They started building it in the 1920s and it's still being built today.

There are lots of great festivals, but in September there's one called La Mercè. It's a cultural festival with performances and art exhibitions. Make sure you don't miss it!
