Example answers:

A

It's natural for us to plan for the future, after all it's what makes us human. When I was younger, I was always worrying about my children's future. I worked hard to save money, but, because of that, I wasn't able to spend much time with them. Now I'm older, I wish I'd spent more time with them. You can never replace that time so, take it from me, make the most of it while you can.

B

A lot of people say that schools focus on the wrong things and that they should do more to help young people develop their talents, like dance or art. I'm not so sure about that, though. I think schools do a good job of preparing students for professional careers. If young people have got special talents, why can't they develop them in their own time? IMHO, the grass is always greener on the other side. Schools should keep teaching children the things they'll really need in future.

Part C

SPEAKING

Ex 1

- 1 Where's the best place to buy second-hand things in your town?
2 Who's the most widely respected person you know?
3 What do you wish you'd done when you were younger?
4 What behaviour do you find the most annoying?

Ex 2

Example answers:

1 (Where's the best place to buy second-hand things in your town?)

There's a big market where you can buy old clothes and furniture. It's really good.

2 (Who's the most widely respected person you know?)

There's a lady I know who does lots of work for the community. Everyone respects her.

3 (What do you wish you'd done when you were younger?)

I wish I'd learnt a musical instrument. I'd love to be able to play something, but I can't find the time to learn nowadays.

4 (What behaviour do you find the most annoying?)

It's when people are rude or impolite in public. I think you should always be polite to strangers.

Ex 3

Example answer:

In this picture, I can see three people who are playing musical instruments. In the background, there is a woman playing a piano, whereas at the front of the picture, there's a man playing a cello and a woman playing a violin. They could be trying to learn a new piece of music together and perhaps they're rehearsing for a concert. I think talent must be important to them because it allows them to create music together. If they weren't talented, it would be difficult. If they were really talented, they could also play in concerts and people would want to listen to them.
