Reading

6 Read the blog post and write M (Melody), J (Javier) or T (Trina).

What style of music do you like?

From classical to pop, the style we enjoy can be very different to other people's. In today's world we can listen to any kind of music any time we want. And there's lots to discover! I spoke to three people and they told me about unusual types of music they listen to for entertainment.

Melody

A few months ago, I was watching a film when I discovered Gamelan music playing in the background. I really liked it so I listened to more of the music and read about it. It comes from Indonesia and is very traditional. It takes around 30 people to play and uses bells (they make a 'dong' sound when a player hits one) and drums. From photos I've seen, performers usually put on traditional clothes for a concert, and the music can be faster or slower depending on the part of Indonesia it's from. It sounds awesome and I love it.

Javier

Folktronica music is my favourite. It's a mix of traditional country music and electronic music. My friend was the first person to tell me about it. Before that I didn't know anything about it. He told me about a group from Eastern Europe. They livestreamed an event. He was really positive about them so I watched the concert online and it was amazing. It started in the 1980s and is still popular today.

Trina

I'm a big fan of K-Pop. It's basically pop music from South Korea. The performers often write lyrics with English words in them, so I can understand them. In fact, we often lip-synch to music videos at parties with friends! K-Pop bands have brilliant concerts and they often have amazing special effects in their videos. It's great to watch and sing and dance too!

Very interesting types of music there. Do you listen to any unusual types of music? Send me your comments.
